Conservatives have failed to tackle sewage discharges in our River Wey

"Stopping sewage being dumped in our River Wey and waterways is a public health priority as well as an environmental one. I'm doing everything I can to stop it."

I've been working hard to tackle sewage dumping in the River Wey. When a resident told me her son became ill after swimming in Frensham, Water Rangers found E. coli levels there and in Tilford were double the safe limit. I informed the Environment Agency. They are investigating Thames Water and others for environmental permit violations. Ofwat wrote to me to tell me they are also probing Thames Water's compliance with its licence. Last year, 1,271 sewage spills per day were linked to over 200,000 fish deaths.

Thames Water has dumped billions of litres of raw sewage into the River Wey. Instead of stopping sewage dumping, the Conservative Government let them pay £7.2 billion in dividends and rack up £15 billion in debt.

The Conservatives have failed to take decisive action against polluting water firms. Conservative MPs consistently vote against measures to hold these companies accountable, standing idly by as water firms destroy our lakes, rivers, and beaches with raw sewage.

The Liberal Democrats propose a new Blue Flag status to protect rivers, funded by a "sewage tax" on water companies and finest for polluters. It would make Thames Water a public benefit company and abolish Ofwat creating a stronger, independent regulator.
